

Kayla Smith

She/her

Hometown

Redmond, Washington.

Major

Bachelor of Science in Aerospace Engineering

Why did you choose your major/What do you want to do with your degree?

I chose my major because of my passion for space, and my interest in working as an engineer.

What is your favorite thing about the Camras Scholars Program?

The community of other scholars that you get the chance to interact and form relationships with.

Where do you see yourself in 20 years?

I see myself managing a team of engineers who are working toward making the next big break through in space exploration.

How do you think you best represent what it means to be a Camras scholar?

I participated in National Honors Society, and I was named All-Conference 1st team for our colleges division. I also earned the bronze award for service, and was named a Washington Aerospace Scholar.
